The goal of HyperMotion Technology is to generate more accurate on-field decisions; the improvements in gameplay will be even more noticeable this time around. Some other key changes include: “Intelligence Based Player Control” (a.k.a. IBC): The IBC system, which predicts player trajectories in order to better control on-field actions such as controlling passes and shots through traffic, will improve on-field decisions even more. AI Improves Defensive Decisions: AI Decisions will be more reactive in defending more advanced attacks, and more intelligent when defending from a counter-attack. AI

Improves Decision Making: AI will be more aggressive attacking from possession, and more defensive when defending from a counter-attack, defensive play, or when players run behind the defense.

Cover Shot System: This system helps create a more realistic cover shot. The cover shot system focuses more on a player's speed and agility as well as his shooting ability to accurately time a shot. The speed, control, accuracy and power of a player's shot will also be more realistic when using the cover shot system.

New "Player Attributes System": The Player Attributes System provides players with new traits that will reward and penalize players depending on how well they behave on the field. It will also affect the kind of tactics employed by the opponent. The system will reward players who keep their composure, and penalize players who are a distraction on the field.

A New "Playmaker" System: The Playmaker system rewards players for how they create goals by giving players bonuses for their offensive skills like shooting, dribbling and crossing. The new Playmaker system makes players less reliant on “short passes.” Biggest New Feature: Playing as any of the world’s top players will provide an experience that is “second to none.” There are still a handful of players who should have their own stadiums, such as Eusebio (New York City), Maradona (Barcelona) and Raul (Real Madrid), for example. Home Stadiums: Three premier clubs are no longer able to play in their own stadiums, a first for FIFA soccer titles. Giggi’s Inter are forced to play in the Nerazzurri Stadium, Paris Saint-Germain are banned from Stade de France, and Ronaldo’s Juventus are no longer able to

The new FIFA Pro-Player Squad mode allows players to create, control and play as their own personalized team and use up to 100 unique player traits and visual customization options. Pro-Player mode lets players choose from 464 new players to customize the look of the team and give them unique skills. Now you can assign traits, like Strength, Intelligence, Endurance and Stamina to your player. For example, if you build your player around a "big" and "fast" trait you may decide to assign that athlete a large frame and high running speed. Of course, it's entirely up to you to decide which traits and skills you want to use, and which players you want to use them on.
