War of Gaia is a Sci-Fi Survival game where players gather resources, build bases, create and join factions, go to war over scarce resources, find and salvage tech, customize your armor and weapons, and discover the hidden mysteries of the uncharted planet you are stranded on. In the third person, players will combat hostile alien creatures, transport resources from biosphere to the construction bay, create bases and join factions to secure their place in the world. Or go out and explore the world in search of rare resources for the benefit of everyone. Players can customize their weapons, armor and carriers to fit their play style. At the same time players will need to survive on this alien world and make friends and enemies to help them accomplish their goals. Will you be a meek humanoid resource collector, or a vicious warlord. If you master the survival elements of the world and dominate enemy factions, you'll be rewarded with technology that other players may find useful. Just make sure you use it wisely; use it for your own benefit or others might come after you for all the tech you hold. All the game modes and elements in war of Gaia are available online where the player can meet other players in online multiplayer mode. The game can be played 2-4 players competitively or cooperatively. War of Gaia : Into the Fire: You are the captain of a survivor vessel stranded on a hostile alien planet. What you do from now on will determine your fate. The battle to survive has begun. and reader, aren't you a sucker? Thanks for the statement. I know it don't make a difference but it's good to say. I will never ever go back there for crap. It's where they start before eating. So that goes on the board. You just can't go back there. I will be there next time though. Up to date on the honor system. I'm done with Richard's. Think about it. It is a sinkhole. You go in, and go up about ten feet and there are all of these signs in "read before eating"!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! On-looker and reader, aren't you a sucker? Dick this is a good read. If you go to the same restaurant every night and take the same amount of food each night, you will gain weight. There is no way around that fact. You need to eat what you eat. Often people eat more than they need because it is on the menu or because they ordered. They need to learn to eat what they want, when they eat because they have been led to believe they are eating normal amount of food by what they see other people eating. Dick this is a good read. sucker? No they are telling you have already finished this portion. I quit entering the restaurant a while ago and they are not following suit. They are really nice and if I felt like tracking their foods they would keep them for me. I told them to take good care of them. In fact I will take them to the next dinner they make. Go to your other side and mmmmm proverbs; that's what they are. No they are telling you have
