A: First of all, I'm sorry for answering this too late, but this is my first post here. I'm trying to do the same thing and came here to find what I was looking for, but here I'm surprised to see that there isn't any answer for it... Ok, so what I was looking for was a possibility to connect two vertical lines in a line chart. The documentation says it's possible, but the examples are not complete, so it's not clear. First of all, in the docs, we can see that all the required options are the same that they have in any line chart: theme: default or custom theme, default, or user-defined theme with customizations to line thickness and stroke width scale: number that scales a line from zero to the maximum value in a dataset stroke: a stroke color or array of colors (see line.stroke) lineWidth: line width in pixels But when I try to do something like this, it doesn't work: Chart.defaults.global.scales.xAxes[0].minorGridLines.display = true; var ctx = document.getElementById("myChart"); var chart = new Chart(ctx, { type: 'line', data: { labels: ['Red', 'Blue', 'Yellow', 'Green'], datasets: [{ label: 'My First dataset', data: [0, 100, 0, 100], backgroundColor: 'rgba(0,0,0,0.1)',

The 2D datasets look like this: data1 = {{0, 0}, {200, 0}, {300, 2.34}, {400, 0}, {500, 0}, {600, 0]}; data2 = {{0, 0}, {200, 0}, {300, 0}, {400, 0}, {500, 1.69}, {600, 1.69}, {700, 0]}; The 3D data looks like this: data3 = {{0, 0, 0}, {200, 0, 0}, {300, 0, 0}, {400, 0, 0}, {500, 0, 0.2}, {600, 0, 0.2}, {700, 0, 0]}; I know that I can plot the 2D dataset like this: ContourPlot[{data1[[All, 1]], data1[[All, 2]]}, {t, 0, 700}, {x, 0, 700}] where t is the z-axis and x is the x-axis. However, as you can see from the plots above, I can not easily see the y-axis. I can change the ContourPlot to a List 595f342e71
